

Some Books by Paul Hiebert

Hiebert, Paul G. Anthropological Insights for Missionaries. Baker Book House, 1985.

———. Anthropological Reflections on Missiological Issues. Baker Books, 1994.

———. Cultural Anthropology. Baker Book House, 1983.

———. The Gospel in Human Contexts: Anthropological Explorations for Contemporary Missions. Baker Academic, 2009.

———. The Missiological Implications of Epistemological Shifts: Affirming Truth in a Modern/Postmodern World. Trinity Press International, 1999.

———. Transforming Worldviews: An Anthropological Understanding of How People Change. Grand Rapids, Mich: Baker Academic, 2008.

Hiebert presents his philosophy of missionary work. It is rather academic book. A background in anthropology and philosophy will ease the reading. Anyone involved with missions in academia must be not only familiar with but conversant about this work.

Hiebert, Paul G, and Frances F Hiebert. Case Studies in Missions. Baker Book House, 1987.

A collection of sixty three case-studies from mission fields around the world. If one thinks he has a quick answer to these then he keep quiet until he understands more.

Hiebert, Paul G, and Eloise Hiebert Meneses. Incarnational Ministry: Planting Churches in Band, Tribal, Peasant, and Urban Societies. Baker Books, 1995.

Hiebert, Paul G, R. Daniel Robert Daniel Shaw, and Tite Tienou. Understanding Folk Religion: A Christian Response to Popular Beliefs and Practices. Baker Books, 1999.

The authors present an excellent contrast between formal religions and their folk counterparts. This includes folk-Christianity as well as folk Hindu, Islam, and others. This book demonstrates that one does not fully understand theology until one understands the basis for folk religions and why people in general only pay "lip-service" to the formal religion they espouse.
